ABSTRACT

In addition to providing the Dissertation Office with two complete copies of your dissertation, you provide two extra copies of your abstract and title page—one for the University and one for UMI. You do not need to print the separate copies of your abstract and title page on the special paper used for the copies of your dissertation. Use regular paper, 8.5 by 11 inches, printed on one side only. Double space your text, and use the same 12-point font used in your dissertation. The margins of your abstract should be as they are in your dissertation—1 inch from the top, right, and bottom, and 1.5 inches from the left.

Your abstract should include the following information at the top of the first page—the title of your dissertation, your name as it appears in your University of Chicago official student records, your dissertation advisor’s full name and title, your dissertation committee members’ full names and titles, and the heading “abstract” as shown above. Then start the text of the abstract.

The text should be the same as the text of the abstract within your dissertation, if your dissertation contains an abstract. Please supply an additional copy of your abstract in English, if the abstract within your dissertation is in a foreign language. Do not go over 350 words of text, or the editors at UMI will cut it for inclusion within print bibliographies (not within the dissertation itself). You may wish to limit the length of your abstract if this concerns you. In any case, your abstract should not be longer than two pages, double-spaced.

Text should be neat and legible, printed with crisp, dark black characters. Do not use abbreviations in the title. Although you must use word substitutes for formulas, symbols, superscripts, subscripts, Greek characters, etc. for both the title and the text of the abstract, you should include any appropriate accents and diacritical marks. Do not include graphs, charts, tables, or illustrations.
